Dear Dr. Penning and Ms. Prunty,

Invitation to extended public consultations to discuss Disney's Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) for the proposed cruise ship port at Lighthouse Point.

We are writing to invite you to attend our extended public consultation meeting on April 15th at 6:00 PM EST (Zoom link, Meeting ID: 851 6168 9824) to discuss your company's Environmental Impact Assessment for your proposed project at Lighthouse Point. We attended the meeting on April 8th hosted by the Department of Environmental Protection and Planning. We appreciate that many of the experts who worked on your EIA were in attendance, but we were disappointed that the more than 350 public attendees were allotted very limited opportunities to ask questions and no opportunity to engage in a meaningful discussion.

As a result, we are hosting extended public consultations to discuss important issues identified in the EIA by the public and independent local and international experts. This first meeting will focus on the adequacy of the EIA with regard to its consideration of Economics, Sustainability, and Alternatives. Independent experts Dr. Greg Miller, Executive Director of the Center for Responsible Travel (CREST), and Dinah Bear, former Chief Counsel at the U.S. President's Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ), will lead off the hour-long public discussion. As is the spirit of Environmental Impact Assessments and meaningful public participation, we are eager for you, and any other Disney employees or experts who are able, to join us on April 15th for a transparent, thorough, and meaningful discussion about the EIA. We are particularly hopeful that Mr. Zachary Sears from Oxford Economics will be available to attend and participate in this first meeting.

Thank you and please let us know who from Disney will attend.

Respectfully,
